Message from Rabbi Raphael Adler

How to age healthy and live longer and better

Dr. Ezekiel Emanuel in a new book offers ways to stay mentally strong and age well. One in particular is focused on what we do at Temple Anshei Shalom on a daily basis.

"Be socially connected-building strong social relationships as they reduce stress and increase brain boosting."

In other words, attending Shabbat, Holiday and daily minyan as well as classes and programs at our congregation. The power of connecting with others at worship and sharing a nosh are not only very Jewish things to do, they are good for you too.

The number of people, especially retirees, who have even one close friend nearby is declining year by year. At shul you have dozens of friends who will be as approachable and engaging as you allow.

What is even more healthy is that you are meditating and pondering deeply the message of a favorite prayer. You are also learning and have the opportunity to expand your horizons with Torah messages and classes. You have a direction to your day and a worthy destination that gets one dressed and out of the house to do something important.

If all this is not enough, coming to shul and connecting with community is an act that is deeply satisfying. Choosing to become another link in the great Jewish chain of tradition as we rise with voice and heart brings a pleasure greater than the sum of its parts.

For two thousand years the Jewish People have tried to find a substitute for the synagogue without success. We are part of a unique living and dynamic endeavor. Whatever one brings to Temple Anshei Shalom they receive far more in return.

Finally, since October 7, attending shul is an act of courage. There are many who are simply afraid of coming to a Jewish institution in this day and age. When we walk in the door with pride and our heads held high, the message is clear. The haters will not win, and the anti semites will not prevail.

So what are you waiting for?
See you at shul!
Am Yisrael Chai,
Rabbi Raphael Adler

TAS Yom HaShoah

by: Tony Krisman

It was my PRIVILEGE AND HONOR to once again chair our annual TAS Yom HaShoah Service.

This year, a large group of survivors from Jewish Family Services (JFS) joined us.

All attendees were welcomed to light a memorial candle as they entered our sanctuary. On a special arrangement in the sanctuary, many survivors were invited to light a memorial candle.

Rabbi Adler and Cantor Cohen added to the solemnity with ritual words and melodies.

Survivors were encouraged to tell about their experiences in Camps and shared heartfelt moments of survival and the loss of their dear ones through the Holocaust years.

The service culminated when all that attended in the sanctuary gathered across the way at our Memorial Gardens to chant the Kaddish Memorial Prayer and hear our beloved Shofar sounding out words of hope and survival of our Jewish people.

May we all gather together each and every year to honor those six million lives that perished in the Holocaust.

MAY THEIR MEMORIES BE FOR A BLESSING

Tony Krisman

P.S. My personal thanks to all those that contributed to the program.
A special thanks to Melissa for arranging all the details to make this event special.

Message from TAS Vice President

Our temple community continues to grow in the most meaningful way, as we warmly welcome an increasing number of new members into our Temple family. This growth reflects not only the vibrancy of our congregation, but also the genuine sense of connection and belonging that so many are seeking—and finding—here at Temple Anshei Shalom. It was especially heartening to see such a strong show of support from our membership for our Community First Night of Passover Seder, a beautiful evening that truly showcased the spirit and warmth of our community.

That same enthusiasm carries through to our ongoing programs, where both members and non-members alike gather each week for the Rabbi's Talk, fostering thoughtful discussion and shared learning. Our Life Long Learning program, continues to inspire and engage participants with enriching speakers and conversations. In addition, our monthly Flea Market, expertly run by our very own Joanne Kessler, and our free movies open to the community, have become cherished events that bring people together in fun and meaningful ways.

Looking ahead, there are so many wonderful programs on the horizon. With your continued support and participation, we will not only sustain this momentum but also continue to attract new members and expand the opportunities we offer. Our Fundraising Chair, Mauricio Arenzon, is dedicated to bringing us a wide variety of engaging programs that will be enjoyed by all.

As always, we welcome your ideas and input. If you have suggestions for future programs or classes, please share them with the Board of Directors—we value your voice and vision. Wishing everyone a wonderful and relaxing summer season.

Fran Speiser

Message from TAS Cantor Kenneth Cohen

This season we again contemplate the aftermath of our redemption from oppression, and try to help each other discover and process the residual hindrances to which we had attached ourselves, during the long period of our bondage. As we trudge through the challenging progression of days of the Omer, we hope to find our community elevated by a clear and vindicating truth, when we finally arrive together at the Mountain of Revelation.

And during this season, as we revisit the evils that have beset us during our journey, the price they exacted from us, and as we celebrate our triumph over them, it is almost like waking from a dream, to find that in our current life we are still burdened by the same bedevilments. This time around, after we have learned so much about how the impossible knots of prejudice and slavery might be loosened, it will take all of our strength and collective effort to dissolve those knots of hatred and greed that threaten to choke off all joy and love and knowledge and thankfulness that are central to our heritage. May our faith in Hashem continue to strengthen us in this never ending work of harvesting the very best of life in this world.

Over the past five years, it has been an honor to serve Temple Anshei Shalom as your cantor. My life has been deeply touched by all of you. I am wishing you the very best, and will be always grateful, and hopeful that we shall have seen each other standing together again in trembling and wonder at Sinai.

Shalom and Aloha,
Cantor Ken Cohen

"The Teacher Who Tried to Steady the Ark"
By: Rabbi Cheryl Miller

I'd like to share with you a short Midrash that connects this story with the role of being a teacher. I call it, "The Teacher Who Tried to Steady the Ark."

There once was a teacher who loved Torah the way King David loved the Ark - with spirit in her voice and fire in her heart.

When her new students came to her, she was overjoyed.

"I will work to guide them perfectly," she thought.

She planned out each lesson.
She corrected every mistake.
She anticipated every question even before it was asked.

Her students grew through her nurturing and guidance just like young plants would be cultivated by a gardener.

But one day, the teacher noticed that her students seemed less confident and not as focused as usual.

They forgot a word of Torah.
Their melodies were a little choppy.
There was more silence in their time together.

The teacher sensed that something was not just not right so she reacted - quickly, instinctively - to steady the learning, to fix the moment, to hold it together, just like Uzzah reaching for the falling Ark.

At that moment, something invisible shifted.

Not the student' voices - but their confidence

Not their lesson - but their sense of ownership

Not their physical presence - but their connectedness

Their teacher felt this difference immediately.

The room became quieter . . . Not with wonder - but with an awareness that something was missing.

That night, the teacher sat in the silence thinking about how to motivate her students.

"The Teacher Who Tried" continued here…..

She remembered how King David had once stopped in fear and asked: "How can I carry this Ark home to Jerusalem? What changes do I have to make?"

King David came to understand that he had been trying to carry something that was never his alone to carry.

The next time the students came to class, the teacher changed her approach.

When they forgot words of Torah - she saw that moment as a gift for discussion.

When their melody was a little unstable - she provided a gentle redirection.

When the silence came - she saw that as a contemplative pause, where processing and emotions could be held in confidence and comfort.

And slowly, something returned.

The teacher heard her students - this time their voices were uniquely their own.

And through their voices came their thoughts, their learning, their imagination - all their own and all very much alive.

And the teacher began to feel a sense of rejoicing again.

Not because everything was perfect.

Rather, because it was authentic.

Being a teacher is indeed holy work. To guide students is like walking with the Ark - and to truly teach them is to know when to let your hands fall away, trusting that they will find their way.
